

COURTNEY HARRISON

hrQ

People Track

Workshop: Aligning Your Employee Value Proposition with the Future of Work

Courtney brings over 20 years of experience in HR, business strategy, organizational development, leadership training, talent management, transformational change, innovation and culture development. Her work was recently profiled in Harvard Business Review in an article entitled Bright Shiny Objects and the Future of HR which focused on the work she and two of her colleagues conducted over the last five years at Juniper Networks to help reimagine the role that HR can and should play in business strategy. Her work was also profiled in Talent Management Magazine in Sept 2014 in the article Deploying Network Talent to Drive Innovation which focused on her passion for helping shift companies from using traditional organizational charts as a means of driving business to utilizing an organizational structure that is more agile, collaborative, peer-based and built upon network theory.

Courtney sits on the Board of Vectra Bank and Xceleration. She has been an MBA Adjunct Professor for over 15 years and regularly guest lectures at universities including Vanderbilt, USC, Cornell and at HR or OD related Conferences.

BENEFITS | TOTAL REWARDS

INNOVATION INSIGHTS
SUMMIT 2018
IMA BENEFITS AND TOTAL REWARDS